The Power of Firsts

Every young person's future is shaped by a series of "firsts." A first opportunity, advocate, success, or experience that shapes what they believe is possible.

Join transition professionals for a day of learning and connection focused on how our partnerships and actions can open doors for youth with disabilities.

This isn't about adding to an already-full to-do list. It's a chance to step back, connect, learn from what's working, and find practical ways to build on the work you're already doing.

Leave with practical tools, a fresh perspective, and one step you can take to move the work forward.

Event Highlights

Powerful Stories

Hear lived experiences and perspectives that challenge assumptions and show how we can influence or provide a first opportunity.

Workshops

Explore strategies and resources you can use in your work around employment, education, self-advocacy, family partnership, transition planning, and systems collaboration.

Collaboration

Connect with your district Core Team to explore opportunities and possibilities in your own community.
